Please explain the requested change(s) and offer rationale below or on an attachment The faculty in CCEI are requesting to modify the admissions requirements for the Masters of Education with Major in Curriculum and Instruction. This change comes as a result of a comparison of admission requirements from local and national online programs similar to the one we offer. It is our goal to remain competitive in this field and offer more students an opportunity to participate in this online degree program. If this change is approved, all applicants must submit a transcript, a personal statement, evidence of professional or temporary certification (where applicable), resume and two letters of reference. Students would no longer be required to submit a GRE score. If the change is approved, this would necessitate a catalogue change in the requirement for graduate admissions to the Masters of Education with Major in Curriculum and Instruction degree. Please see the proposed admission requirements attached, changes or additions are highlighted in yellow.

Master of Education with Major in Curriculum and Instruction Program Change
Department of Curriculum, Culture, and Educational Inquiry (CCEI)

Received

The faculty in CCEI are requesting to modify the admissions requirements for the Master of Education with Major in Curriculum and Instruction program. This change comes as a result of a comparison of admission requirements from local and national online programs similar to the one we offer. This program has been ranked in the top 50 of online programs in curriculum and instruction from bestcolleges.com and is proud to be part of the online programs ranked No. 83 for the 2018 "Best Online Education Programs," in U.S. News & World Report (up from No. 193 in 2017). It is our goal to remain competitive in this field and offer more students an opportunity to participate in this online degree program.

Current admission requirements:

Admission Requirements
Domestic Students <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If GPA <3.0 153 (verbal) and 145 (quantitative) • If GPA >3.0 148 (verbal) and 143 (quantitative) • Evidence of professional certification or temporary certification • GRE Analytical Writing score of 3.5 • Application cover letter (no more than two pages) including: personal statement specifying area of concentration (if known), reason for applying to the program and professional goals 	International Students <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If GPA <3.0 153 (verbal) and 145 (quantitative) • If GPA >3.0 148 (verbal) and 143 (quantitative) • GRE Analytical Writing score of 3.5 • A course-by-course evaluation of international transcripts is required; FAU will do the evaluation or it must be done by a NACES member • TOEFL score of 500 or IBT of 61; IELTS 6.0 • Application cover letter (no more than two pages) including: personal statement specifying area of concentration (if known), reason for applying to the program and professional goals

If this change is approved, all applicants must submit a transcript, a personal statement, evidence of professional or temporary certification (where applicable), resume and two letters of reference. Students would no longer be required to submit a GRE score. If the change is approved, this would necessitate a catalogue change in the requirement for graduate admissions to the Master of Education with Major in Curriculum and Instruction program. Subject: Program change - request for no conflict

Dear fellow chairs:

After much deliberation, CCEI is moving forward with a new proposal for admitting students into the M.Ed in Curriculum and Instruction program. We have seen many promising students demonstrate that the GRE does not provide a clear indication of their potential. I am sending this out to you for the customary chair statements of no conflict so that we can move this forward to the GPC.

Thanks,
Dilys

Dear Dr. Schoorman,

This is a program policy for your program. We do/will continue to use the GRE, however, as your decision is for your program. I see no conflict with our program or its admission process.

With best regards,

Dilys,

This does not conflict with programs in Teaching and Learning.
