UNPUBLISHED RESEARCH

Arneklev, B. J. (2013). In search of a more valid and reliable indicator of "teaching effectiveness" for the College for Design and Social Inquiry. Submitted to FAU's Teaching Assessment Committee (Chair: Dr. Nancy France), Spring, 2013, 1-54.

Arneklev, Bruce J. & Peluso, Paul "SPOT Survey Analysis: Response Rates, Reliability, and Validity." Invited presentation to Steering (organizational committee to the Faculty Senate) and the Provost on March 21st, 2020. Included data analysis on data collected through iea on all SPOT response rates for each of the last 27 semesters at FAU.

RQ 1: Did reducing the on-line SPOT Survey from 21 multiple choice items to six questions increase response rates?

RQ 2: Are the chosen five items from the longer 21 item SPOT survey reliably related to one another (and do they account for a single SET construct)?

RQ 3: Is the new sixth item reliably related to the first five (and do they all still account for a single SET construct)?

Arneklev, Bruce J. & Peluso, Paul "SPOT Survey Analysis: Response Rates, Reliability, and Validity." Invited presentation to FAU's Faculty Senate on April 1st, 2020.
